

Contributors

H.C. Pentland, who died in 1978, taught economics at the University of Manitoba.

John Battye is Director of Continuing Education at St. Mary's University in Halifax and editor of the Committee on Canadian Labour History Bulletin.

Robert Harney is a member of the University of Toronto History Department and President of the Multicultural History Society of Ontario.

David Frank is completing a Ph.D. thesis on Cape Breton coal miners at Dalhousie University and will be a Killam Fellow at the College of Cape Breton for 1979-1981.

Nolan Reilly teaches history at the University of Winnipeg and is completing a Dalhousie Ph.D. on Amherst, N.S.

Michael Piva is a member of the University of Ottawa's History Department and author of the recently published The Condition of the Working Class in Toronto, 1900-1921.

Veronica Strong-Boag, author of The Parliament of Women, teaches history at Concordia.

Paul Craven teaches in the Social Science Division of York University and is editor of Ontario Report.

Ross McCormack, president of the Committee on Canadian Labour History and author of Reformers, Rebels and Revolutionaries, is a member of the University of Winnipeg History Department.

Ian McKay is currently working on a Dalhousie Ph.D. thesis on mainland Nova Scotia coal miners.

Peter Blanchard teaches history at the University of Toronto.