

CONTRIBUTORS/COLLABORATEURS

Jean Barman is an educational historian at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

Michael J. Earle is currently a doctoral student at Dalhousie University conducting thesis research on labour and politics in industrial Cape Breton.

Deborah Gorham teaches British and Women's History at Carleton University in Ottawa, Ontario.

Virginia Hunter teaches Classical History at York University in Toronto.

William Kaplan is a professor of law at the University of Ottawa and the author of a forthcoming book on the Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada.

Gary Marcuse is a researcher and free-lance broadcaster in Vancouver, B.C.

Michele Martin is a graduate student in Sociology at the University of Toronto.

Suzanne Morton is a doctoral candidate in History at Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Joel Novek teaches Sociology at the University of Winnipeg.

Mariana Valverde teaches Women's Studies and Sociology at Trent University in Peterborough, Ontario and is finishing a book on the Social Purity Movement in Canada.

Eli Zaretsky is an American historian at the University of Maryland in College Park, MD.