

CONTRIBUTORS/COLLABORATEURS

Sean Cadigan is a doctoral candidate at Memorial University in history working on a thesis entitled "Social Relations in the Newfoundland Fishery, 1785-1855."

Jessie Chisholm is a PhD candidate at Memorial University and is completing a thesis on St. John's workers, 1886-1914.

J.B. Foster teaches Sociology at the University of Oregon and is the author of The Faltering Economy: The Problem of Accumulation under Monopoly Capitalism.

Charlene Gannagé is a Canadian Research Fellow at York University and author of Double Day, Double Bind: Women Garment Workers.

Martin Glaberman teaches at Wayne State University and is the author of War-time Strikes.

Linda Little currently farms in River John, N.S. and teaches occasionally at St. Francis Xavier University.

Michael Lonardo is the Social Sciences Librarian in the Queen Elizabeth II Library at Memorial University.

Peter McInnis is a PhD candidate in history at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario.

Jim Overton teaches sociology at Memorial University and has published extensively on the Atlantic region.

Robert Sweeny teaches Quebec History at Memorial University and is the author of Les relations ville/campagne: le cas du bois de chauffage.